

North America Visiting Journalist Program Request Form

Regions, Cities and Industry Partners are eligible for Destination British Columbia's support through the Visiting Journalist program.

Destination BC will consider supporting requests for media visits which:

- Promote British Columbia as a travel destination in print, online or broadcast media,
- represent more than one travel/hospitality industry partner,
- reflect a confirmed assignment by the journalist and editor,
- provide unpaid editorial coverage in our key geographic and sector/vertical markets and support our key strategies,
- represent a publication with minimum monthly readership of 50,000
 - higher circulations may be required based on market and demographic (contact Destination BC's Media Relations department for television / online requirements);
- provide three weeks advance notice.

In order to qualify for support the applicant must demonstrate that they are also making an equal investment in the press trip.

Destination British Columbia's primary means of support will be air or ground transportation. Industry is expected to provide media with accommodations, meals and activities.

Any coverage resulting from Destination BC funded projects should be provided to Destination British Columbia's Media Relations team in a timely manner.

When providing support, Destination BC should be recognized to media, industry partners and key stakeholders as a contributing partner. This should include name and contact information of a Destination BC travel media representative, Super Natural BC logo, the HelloBC.com website and social media accounts. Information on activities, insurance and COVID-19 should also be included. The following is an example of what to include in the journalist's itinerary:
